More than an equipment provider

Clark Dental is proud to be so much more than the supplier of world-class equipment and furniture. We are dedicated to supporting our clients and ensuring that they can get the very most out of their cutting-edge technologies.

For every piece of equipment we offer, we streamline the entire journey, from product selection to installation, team training and ongoing aftersales support. We're here to help maintain technology where necessary, with an extensive and highly experienced team of engineers on hand to keep everything running smoothly for minimal disruption to your patient care.

We provide a comprehensive service so you can count on us in every situation. We are more than just an equipment provider.

Keep our waterways safe!

Dental amalgam presents considerable danger to marine environments. The material has significant mercury content that is converted into monomethyl mercury in ocean water, which can damage both wildlife and humans who consume creatures that have ingested the contaminated water.

Make sure you protect our waterways against amalgam with the PureMotion amalgam separator from Initial Medical.

This BSI-accredited solution achieves up to 99.8% removal of amalgam from your waste water stream and has 'plug and play' fixtures that mean it can be simply installed, even on existing waste water systems.

Plus, as part of Initial Medical's service agreement, your PureMotion amalgam separator will be professionally installed with no need for any downtime and regularly replaced during servicing. This ensures you can significantly minimise the threat that amalgam from your practice poses to the environment.
